The uniforms for the Rockville Academy have been received and the cadets look very handsome and soldierly in their natty gray suits. Considering the extraordinary rush for uniforms at this time, in consequence of war demands, the New York Clothing House, of Baltimore, has treated our town pretty well by this prompt and efficient service. We understand that the Academy has already a very creditable company and it is to be hoped that our "Home Guard" will soon give us the pleasure of viewing them in a street parade.
